Understanding KUSA's role in Global Dogdom

Founded in 1891, KUSA is the internationally recognized purebred registry and the governing body for dog clubs in Southern Africa. There are 206 dog clubs affiliated with KUSA and with approx. 4 000 members, KUSA promotes the welfare of purebred dogs locally and internationally. All KUSA affiliated dog clubs belong to provincial councils where they can represent their club's view on important canine issues. KUSA has six provincial councils who can raise issues to the KUSA Federal Council in order to make a decision on national and international policies.

KUSA is registered as the Breeders' Society & Registering Authority for 218 Canine breeds by the Dept. of Agriculture & Forestry under the Animal Improvement Act No 62 of 1998.

Canine Good Citizen

Canine Good Citizen rewards dogs who have been trained to display good manners throughout their daily lives and it encourages responsible dog ownership by all dog owners.

Health Testing

KUSA promotes health tests wherever possible and by capturing the test results on the KUSA database, KUSA plays an important role in supporting the welfare of dogs in Southern Africa. Health certificates are available from KUSA on request.
